

OSHA Forklift & Rigging Training Class

Tuesday, July 17, 2012

Purpose : OSHA’s *mandatory compliance standard for the new forklift training rule is now in effect. Forklift operators frequently under estimate the damage that can be caused by careless operation of their units. Death, serious injury, damage to building, damage to stock and forklift damage have all been documented on a regular basis over the years. Since operating a forklift can be hazardous, *OSHA now requires that all workers who operate power lift devices receive training in the use of these units at least every three years.

(*The new forklift training rule states that, regardless of an operator’s performance , refresher training must occur every three years.)

Topics to be included but not limited to:

- * Pre-Operational Inspection
- * Safety & OSHA Rules (OSHA Standards 1926.602 & 1910.178)
- * Written Test
- * Proper Operation
- * Site Specific/Equipment Specific Training
- * Traveling In Various Conditions
- * Driving Safety Test-Hands On-Your Site
